We the People 256 Ontario's Evil Law

Good Day to you. If you are like me then you may well be offended by the ceaseless chatter of the homosexual LGBTQ folk where Q stands for queer. I accept they represent people in society who are sexually challenged but feel they are not properly recognised in society as equal citizens. In my view they are disparate to main stream society but their current strategy of raising their voices at the rest of the community is wearing a bit thin in my view. It's not appropriate to demand that the majority change to suit and homosexual marriage or marriage equality is an oxymoron in my view. When our youth is being influenced to believe in nonsense like gender fluidity it really upsets me and I think we as a society are due more respect. Ultimately the excessive and relentless pressure for society to conform to the LGBTQ standards will drive community resentment. As an example, let me share with you a section of a new law which has just been passed in Ontario Canada.

Canada has a lot in common with Australia in history, law, values, language and so on. So you may find what I'm about to tell you as unbelievable and if you doubt then just go to the Sentinel web site and follow the link to the legislation. The problem lies in their new Bill number 89 passed on June the 1st this year. The bill or legislation, appears to be aimed at the welfare of children but buried deep within the legislation is a little bit of pure evil. The State attempts to take away the rights of parents and in particular when gender confusion arises. Put simply, if a child believes they are really of the opposite gender or feel a desire to be male one day and female the next, hence the term gender fluidity, then the parents can be found guilty of child abuse unless they provide the child with what it wants. Yes you heard correctly, the parents can be prosecuted for child abuse and the child removed by the State, if the parents don't help the child with hormone drugs, dress or gender reassignment surgery. The child could be just 10 or 11 years of age, younger or older. So one morning little Johnny wakes up and demands to be a girl and pops on a new frock and apparently the parents must capitulate. The same can apply with little Sally who wakes with similar ideas. Failure to assist young Johnny or Sally could result in the State removing the children from their parents. At what point do we label this type of absurd legislation as pure evil. Well this is that moment believe me and it might be that our lot in Australia will wheel this out too, so we must be vigilant because there is no pot of gold at the end of this rainbow. It gets worse though as Christians are clearly discriminated against in terms of their belief and moral structure in this duplicitous legislation. This is a law against parents' natural rights and against a moral society. This is George Orwell's 1984 in reality where the State takes control of people's lives with Bill 89.

According to Lyle Shelton of the Australian Christian Lobby this is Australia's "Safe Schools" program on steroids and it is where gender fluid theory sadly takes public policy. A NSW Department of Education and Communities Legal Issues Bulletin in 2014 implies that teachers have a "mandatory" duty to report parents who do not affirm their children changing their gender. The "Safe Schools" debate over the past few years has seen politicians paralysed by political correctness, unwilling to stand up to the harmful pseudo-science coming out of the likes of La Trobe University in Melbourne, the academic body that gave us the "Safe Schools" program. No one of course wants to see any child harmed or bullied. But parents have the right to push back on gender theory which tells children their gender is fluid – a lie in biology and a lie in science. The push towards teaching children that their gender is fluid has of course flowed from the same-sex marriage debate and flies under the same rainbow political flag. It is the next step after removing the gender diversity requirement from marriage law and was the next thing rainbow activists pivoted to in the US and Canada, after unelected judges decreed that same-sex marriage was the law of the land. Three years ago, the "Safe Schools" debate was not on our society's radar. Who would have thought the government would ever fund a program that instructed girls in binding their breasts and boys tucking their penises and suggesting sex-change surgery to children "with or without parental consent". We must push back against all this nonsense else our children pay a dreadful price just as they are in Ontario.
