

Dear Service Provider,

Organisations that provide a professional service to Deaf consumers, including government agencies, private business and non-profit entities, understand the importance of ensuring clear communication at meetings with their Deaf clients.

Misinterpretation of information can be avoided by using a sign language interpreter to bridge any cultural and linguistic gaps in communication.

NICSS books sign language interpreters for a wide range of services including legal, education, financial, employment and conferences. This is an Australian wide service.

NICSS offers competitive rates and will always provide a quote for your approval before proceeding with a booking request. We match the most appropriately qualified interpreter to your Deaf client, according to the nature of the appointment.

All NICSS interpreters are NAATI qualified. They have experience/skills in interpreting in a variety of professional and government services.

We invite you to contact us for an obligation free quote and to discuss your specific needs by phone 1800 246 945 or email bookings@nicss.org.au

To discover more about the services NICSS covers, please visit our website at www.nicss.org.au

Yours sincerely,

National Interpreting and Communication Services