

Disability Support Workers/Professionals

- Permanent part-time and casual work available
- Immediate start, flexible hours, close to home (Penrith region)
- Work with a great team and make a difference
- Training available for the right candidates

For over 50 years Thorndale has been providing quality care and support for people with an intellectual disability in our local community.

Our Disability Support Workers are key to what we do – empowering people with a disability, to live, work and learn in a positive environment that enriches their lives.

As a professional Disability Support Worker, your responsibilities will include:

- Contributing to the overall care, health and wellbeing of clients
- Supporting the social engagement and participation of clients in everyday life, and
- Contributing to planning and record keeping.

Candidates must have experience and/or a genuine desire to work with people with disabilities, good interpersonal and communication skills, a NSW drivers licence, and a willingness and ability to work day and overnight shift work.

Ideally, you will also have relevant industry and/or tertiary qualifications, a first aid certificate and a knowledge of person centered approaches to care.

Exceptional candidates without formal qualifications but a clear willingness to learn may be provided with training support after a qualifying period.

If you share our vision and values and consider yourself a suitable candidate, we'd love to hear from you - please email recruitment@thorndale.com.au to obtain an information package.

Apart from working with a great team, we offer an outstanding working environment, flexibility and opportunities to learn and grow.

Wages and conditions are in accordance with the Social Community Homecare & Disability Award 2010.
