Sympli lodges its first electronic document

- Queensland becomes first state with choice in e-settlement providers
- Sympli to progressively rollout services and extend to more states

Sympli Australia Pty Ltd (Sympli) has commenced operations by lodging its first document in Queensland earlier today.

The lodgement of a Priority Notice, a key land registry document, was completed on behalf of KRG Conveyancing in Queensland. A Priority Notice is the first of many instruments Sympli will offer as it progressively rolls out services nationally.

George Richardson, General Manager, KRG Conveyancing said that “it is great to have choice in electronic settlement providers and we are keen to see more electronic settlements in Queensland.”

The Queensland Titles Registry has played an active role in enabling Sympli to enter the market.

Sympli CEO David Wills commented “we see an enormous opportunity to deliver better value and service for conveyancing practitioners and financial institutions. We are delighted to lodge our first document in Queensland – making it the first Australian state to have competition and choice in e-settlement providers.

“We look forward to building Sympli’s presence in Queensland and around Australia, as we grow our capability and meet the anticipated demand for e-settlement services.”

Sympli was granted regulatory approval by ARNECC to become an Electronic Lodgment Network Operator (ELNO) in November.
