HEALTHCARE SUMMIT 2019

FINANCIAL REVIEW

IN ASSOCIATION WITH

Deloitte.

19 February 2019 | Sofitel Wentworth Sydney

Tuesday 19th February 2019

08:50 OPENING | Opening remarks from the Chair
The Australian Financial Review

09:00 The future of health
Healthcare systems around the world are experiencing unprecedented change. At the heart of this movement is a desire to deliver more patient centric services to support wellbeing, as well as treating illness.
The challenge and opportunity for Australia is to use this strong foundation to help scale and navigate this future. This will require clear and consistent choices, consumer focus, collaboration, confidence and committed leadership.
Stephanie Allen, Global Health Lead Partner, Deloitte

DRIVING DIGITAL HEALTH

09:20 What does the future hold for digitally enabled health?
- Painting the vision for digital health in Australia
- Progress update: how is the National Digital Health Strategy improving patient health outcomes through integration of digital health services?

Tim Kelsey, Chief Executive Officer, Australian Digital Health Agency

09:35 PANEL | The quantified self and the empowered patient
- How can we build trust, ensure data privacy and health literacy?
- How is data empowering patients to take control of their own health?

Tim Kelsey, Chief Executive Officer, Australian Digital Health Agency
Leanne Wells, CEO, Consumer Health Forum Australia
Dr Shane Jackson, National President, Pharmaceutical Society of Australia

10:10 Morning tea and networking break

VIRTUAL CARE DELIVERY MODELS, TECHNOLOGY AND THE ART OF THE POSSIBLE

10:40 INTERNATIONAL KEYNOTE | The Danish e-health system
Denmark is a global pioneer in e-health and frequently ranks as having one of the world's best healthcare systems. Denmark's Digital Health 2018-2022 strategy marks another important milestone.
Hans Erik Henriksen, CEO, Healthcare DENMARK

11:10 PANEL | Virtual care, real people
Virtual care delivery models are seeing traditional provider-patient feedback loops evolve. This session explores the application of technologies that are placing the patient at the centre of care and reconfiguring business and care models alike.

Elizabeth Koff, Secretary, NSW Health
Dr Martin Laverty, CEO, Royal Flying Doctor Service of Australia
Dale Fisher, incoming CEO, Silver Chain
Dr Harry Nespolon, President, RACGP

11:50 New frontiers in precision medicine and population health management
The increasing affordability of precision medicine, and the improving accuracy with which we are able to predict disease is enabling a new approach to population health management; shifting from an illness-based healthcare system to one that is focused on prevention.
Dr Rob Grenfell, Director, CSIRO Health and Biosecurity

12:20 Lunch and networking break

UNLOCKING THE POTENTIAL OF A NEW HEALTHCARE ECOSYSTEM

13:10 INNOVATION SHOWCASE |
Clinicians' and patients' expectations of healthcare are changing, and technology is emerging that is making care solutions increasingly convenient, secure and personalized. Meet the new generation of emerging solution-providers, and the new demands that they are meeting – and anticipating.
Showcase facilitator: Robert Hillard, Partner, Deloitte
Robert Read, CEO, MedAdvisor
Silvia Pfeiffer, CEO, Coviu

13:40 PANEL | Precinct models: collaboration and excellence
Precinct models, through closer proximity, increased efficiency and collaboration, are hotbeds for research and are producing thriving economic and innovation corridors – all ultimately leading to better patient outcomes not only at the individual level, but for the whole community too.

Brendan Flynn, Deputy Executive Chair, Melbourne Biomedical Precinct
Professor Alison Jones, Deputy Vice-Chancellor (Health and Communities) and Executive Dean, Faculty of Science, Medicine and Health, University of Wollongong
Hans Erik Henriksen, CEO, Healthcare DENMARK

14:40 LAUNCH | Institute for Health Transformation
Deakin University is proud to announce the launch of Australia's first institute for Health Transformation. The Institute is underscored by a research approach focused on translating research impactful, improved health outcomes.
Prof Anna Peeters, Inaugural Director, Institute for Health Transformation, Deakin University

15:00 Afternoon tea and networking break

ENABLING TRANSFORMATION

15:20 Best practice in Smarter Health Solutions
The availability of bespoke smart health solutions that support and enhance clinical operations and care delivery are proliferating in healthcare, with no signs of slowing down. This session explores the critical success factors in developing smart health solutions, and the lessons that can be learned from other industries.
Pia Clinton-Tarestad, Partner, Consulting, Deloitte

15:50 Quality and Conduct
With the Royal Commission, the spotlight has never been greater on Aged Care in Australia. This session will explore the quality and conduct conversation and, critically, the experiences of older Australians receiving care. How do we shape the future of Aged Care to enable better outcomes for its recipients?

16:20 PANEL | All systems go
With introduction by Michael Walsh, Director General, Queensland Health.

The structure of the healthcare ecosystem has changed. Technology and personalization are driving this ongoing transformation: patients are in control more than ever, and rightly so. Whilst there remain barriers, the momentum for change continues to grow.
This session concludes the day's proceedings by outlining the key barriers to change, and, importantly, zeroing in the steps that government, care providers, clinicians, insurers and the patients themselves can take, to achieve better patient outcomes in a reimagined healthcare ecosystem, sooner.

Dr Tony Bartone, President, AMA
Dr Zoran Bolevich, Chief Executive, eHealth NSW and Chief Information Officer, NSW Health
Michael Walsh, Director-General, Queensland Health

17:00   CLOSING | Closing remarks from the Chair

17:10   End of Summit