— What is our obligation to the future on innovation, inequality and the environment?
— US vs China - is Australia at a crossroads on technology, collaboration and security?

Dr Larry Marshall, Chief Executive, CSIRO
Maile Carnegie, Group Executive, Digital and Australia Transformation, ANZ & Director, Innovation and Science Australia
Rob Hillard, Chief Strategy & Innovation Officer, Deloitte

10:15 IN CONVERSATION
Technology – a force for good
Richard White, CEO, WiseTech Global

10:35 Networking and refreshment break

11:00 ROUNDTABLE
Scaling up: the weak link in Australia’s innovation ecosystem
— How do we help start-ups and SMEs achieve scale and go global?
— Are our capital flow and investment settings having the optimal effect?
— How can we encourage business formation and stimulate competition?

Daniel Petre AO, Founder & Partner, Airtree Ventures
Dr Kate Cornick, CEO, LaunchVic
Dr Simon Poole, Director – New Business Ventures, Finisar
Sam Kroonenburg, CEO & Founder, A Cloud Guru

12:10 ROUNDTABLE
The impact of big tech
— Big Tech has been a major driver of innovation - but does its dominance stifle external innovation and competition?
— ‘Unavoidable business partners’: what are the unintended consequences of Big Tech’s ubiquity for other companies?
— What ethical responsibility do tech companies have? And can they be held accountable?

Dr Rob Nicholls, Senior Lecturer, School of Taxation and Business Law, UNSW Sydney

15:40 ROUNDTABLE
Funding dysfunction: Optimising government research spend
— Do the various different forms of government research funding work together as part of a clear strategy? Or do they reinforce the isolation of research efforts, resulting in missed opportunities and slower progress?
— Should university research be aligned with the nation’s overall transformation strategy? And with around two-thirds of it now self-funded, how could this be achieved?
— How could we better incentivise cross-sector and cross-agency collaboration? Should it attract a higher R&D tax incentive?

Dr Todd Mansell, Chief of Science, Strategy & Program Division, DST
Professor Alex Zelinsky AO, Vice Chancellor, University of Newcastle
Dr Vicki Thomson, Chief Executive, Go8
Professor Anne Kelso AO, CEO, NHMRC

16:20 ROUNDTABLE
