

Mapping for Sustainable Futures

CAREER MAPPING PROGRAM®

Mentoring for sustainable career and livelihood development

With the growing demand for quality employment it is now more than ever the time to understand your point of difference and what it is that makes you a stand out applicant.

Or, are you an aspiring entrepreneur wanting to establish a business or explore how to create your vision?

Often the demands of getting into and then undertaking a course of study are so great that there is no time or place to reflect on what career path you really aspire to and how to create and then sustain it.

This mentoring program is different, it can compliment your current study related programs or you can do it independently; either way you will gain a completely new perspective on your career opportunities.

Who can benefit from the Map You Career Mapping Program®

This mentoring program will be of most benefit to students who are seeking to clarify and establish their sustainable career path or a business. The program would also be of great benefit to mature aged students wishing to enhance their career options or students who are dissatisfied or confused about their current career choices. The ways this can benefit students are when:

- trying to establish or develop a specific career pathway; or
- young entrepreneurs are wanting to establish an enterprise to launch their career; or
- students are challenged by early career development; or
- mature students who are in career transition and not clear on their next step; or
- students wanting to identify totally new career opportunities, or new study paths; or
- international students who are wanting to establish their career in Australia, or at home, and who feel dissatisfied or confused with the direction they are currently taking.

How you will benefit

A student who joins the Career Mapping Program® will have support and assistance from a mentor who has more than twenty years of capacity building experience with people from diverse cultural groups, facilitating livelihood/career development. Many examples of this capacity building and mentoring work undertaken by Jennifer Joi Field with individuals and groups can be found at www.culturalmapping.com in the case studies and at www.writtenintheland.org

Ms Field is now undertaking a doctoral research study through Curtin University in partnership with a large Cooperative Research Centre, to establish new knowledge on ways of establishing sustainable careers and livelihoods. A blog and research study website is soon to be located at www.mappingforsustainablefutures.org

How the mentoring sessions are conducted

There is no obligation to stay beyond a single session, it all depends on the individual as to how quickly they progress. The Career Mapping sessions are delivered individually or in groups (e.g. a class group). The sessions are for 45 minutes and cost $25 per person, per session for groups of not less than 5 students. 1 hour sessions for groups of 10 or more receive a 15% discount, the cost then becomes $21.25 each. Alternatively one on one sessions can be delivered at $65 for a 30 minute online session. Sessions for larger groups can be delivered as either online webinars or at your place of study if travel costs are agreed.
